What Happened To Jane

By VIRGINIA TERRINE VAN DE WATER.

She Tries To Avoid Visiting Her Mother.

CHAPTER XLIX.

So the prison doors were shut again. They had opened only a little way—just far enough for Jane to catch a glimpse of familiar green fields—then had clanged shut and were more secure than ever.

But a change had come over her. She no longer had any desire to go out among her former associates. To the person who is by instinct honest and straightforward, the practice of deception of any kind is sure to be followed by a reaction that takes the form of fierce self-reproach. This Jane suffered for several weeks after her husband had seen his ultimatum with regard to her associating with outsiders.

She told herself that she had been a deserter and a coward, and in allowing Mary Baird to utter falsehoods for her had been guilty of hypocrisy. She could herself for not staying at home to face Ruth and tell her kindly that she was sorry about her mother's illness. For her resentment of her unjustified punishment by her appreciation of her own lack of candor.

She told herself that she had been a deserter and a coward, and in allowing Mary Baird to utter falsehoods for her had been guilty of hypocrisy. She could herself for not staying at home to face Ruth and tell her kindly that she was sorry about her mother's illness. For her resentment of her unjustified punishment by her appreciation of her own lack of candor.

It also cut the daughter to the heart to realize that her mother believed that she had come to see her only to avoid Ruth. Yet was this not partially true? At least there was so much truth in that Jane could not deny it. Nor could she explain the situation without representing her husband as a tyrant. If he was one nobody should know it from her.

Still she could not keep Mary Baird from knowing it. Nor could Mary Baird fail to observe that Augustus never spoke to her with the same gruffness, sometimes unkindly, to the woman. Now he never spoke to her unless it was absolutely necessary, and then in the kindest, briefest words possible.

Thus fact added to Jane's inward conviction. She felt as if her presence in Augustus Reeves' home made life harder for the faithful creature who had lived here for years. And the only way in which the wife could mitigate the disagreeable condition was to treat Mary with uniform kindness.

She was resolved to do this. Always mindful of her husband's orders that she must not allow Mary to become talkative, she said little to the housekeeper when Augustus was present. But during the long hours in which the two women were alone in the great house, Mary gradually formed the habit of bringing to Jane some-

TODAY'S AMUSEMENTS

STARTLING GOWNS AT GREEKIAN.

Some of the most decided novelties in feminine adornment ever portrayed in pictures are promised as features of "The Children in the House," a Triangle-Pine Arts drama which will be shown at the Greekian theater today and tomorrow.

Jewel Carmen, a young actress who was last seen in an elaborate role in the Wolfie Hopper play, "Sunshine Dad," blossoms forth in "The Children in the House" as a full-fledged siren of the screen. In the part of Miss Courtenay, a cabaret dancer, she lures a foolish husband, played by Eugene Pallette, to his destruction. As aids to his ruin, she becocks herself in voluptuous attire remarkable for its extreme uniqueness.

There are evening gowns distinguished both by originality of design and attractiveness of material, jewelry of strange shapes and patterns, and a head-dress of jet and pearls which twine and curl about the siren's head like serpents.

Norma Timmidge is seen as the wife whose husband is lured to destruction by Miss Carmen, and other prominent and busy members of the cast are the Triangle Kiddies, who go through the most amazing adventures they have encountered since they fought a bandit army in "Let Katy Do It."—Adv.

GERALDINE FARRAR.

When Miss Farrar went to the Lasky studios last summer, Lou Tellegen already was there, noting in "The Explorer" and "The Unknown." Miss Farrar's knowledge of the play, "Maria Rosa," led to conferences between him and the actress over the manner in which the title role of the Spanish play should be acted. Here it was that the romance of the two noted artists began, culminating this winter in their marriage in New York.

"Maria Rosa," which is a Paramount picture, tells the absorbing story of a young Spanish peasant girl who is admired by two youths of the village. They, apparently, are the best of friends, but jealousy takes possession of one of them and the girl is falsely accused of crime on his silent testimony and placed in prison. Maria Rosa is in love with the imprisoned Andre, but she feels that she is duty-bound to marry Ramon, the jealous one. On the wedding day the jealous Ramon and Maria Rosa, horrified by a confession over the lips of Ramon, burst and kills him. His dying words are that the act was of his own making and Maria Rosa and Andre are united.

This great feature is the attraction at the Alhambra today.—Advertisement.

"THE NEER DO WELL."

The selling 10-act screen version of Rex Beach's "The Neer Do Well," which is now playing at the Unique theater, is a big rush of action from start to finish. It is even greater than "The Spoilers." Its flights of sweet romance are higher; its depths of dastardly intrigue are deeper; its action and its risks and dangers are more overwhelming.

Kathleen Williams, the famous star who played Cherry Malone in "The Spoilers," is at her best in this great play, and she is supported by the original Spoiler cast. W. N. Selig sent the entire company to Panama in order to secure the proper atmosphere. "The Neer Do Well" is in 30 years and has created a sensation wherever shown.

The best time to get a seat without waiting is during the day. Seats will be in great demand at the night show. The show starts at 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m., 4:45 p. m., 7 p. m. and 9:15 p. m. Admission is 50 cents.—Advertisement.

UGH! CALOMEL IS HORRIBLE! IT SHOCKS YOUR LIVER, IF BILIOUS

Calomel sickens! Don't lose a day's work! Clean your Liver and Bowels with "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work. Calomel is mercury, or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bowels. When it comes into contact with your bile, it causes it to break up into small particles. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Here's my guarantee—do it to any drug store and get a 20 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the drug store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is the only medicine of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can't hurt or make you sick. I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep you feeling fine and healthy. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't grip, and they like its pleasant taste.—Advertisement.
